Step into a safer world.

WHO WE ARE

For more than 20 years, Pacific Disaster Center (PDC) has supported the most demanding government customers and nonprofits worldwide, sharing a common mission to save lives and reduce disaster risk. As an applied research center managed by the University of Hawaii, we are continuously researching and innovating the most advanced technologies and developing sound practices to support effective disaster mitigation, preparation, response, and recovery.

WHAT WE DO

We work side-by-side with government agencies, nongovernmental organizations (NGOs), and humanitarian relief organizations to conduct baseline assessments, risk assessments, to create mitigation strategies, support training and exercises, and to implement our advanced DisasterAWARE® technology. DisasterAWARE offers unrivaled global risk intelligence, early warning, predictive modeling, and the largest collection of scientifically-verified data integrated into a single platform.

WHY WE DO IT

Pacific Disaster Center was established in 1996 following devastation from Hurricane Iniki to the Hawaiian Islands. The Center provides consolidated information from the most reliable sources and the best science and technology for disaster risk reduction at home and beyond. PDC is now a global actor, helping to develop disaster management capacity and support effective decisions, policies, and actions for a safer, more resilient world.
